Good Morning Tim!

We can reach out to The Systems House with MDS again to see if they can assist us. The last time I spoke with Rachel she stated "They are not using EDI for incoming 856's. Therefore the system only adds the inbound as the vendor they purchased from and themselves. The rest is all manually done. If it's sent to you and it has, say 2 inbounds today, and then resent tomorrow, and it's different, that is all done manually. When it's sent to you, the system is only taking the information that is there at the time and creating the 856 document." I am not entirely sure what the tech part of that statement means. But for the time being I can send you the corrected Pedigrees, so you will have the most accurate information! I can keep an eye out for your outgoing orders, Or feel free to send me an email when you place your order. Once the package is out for shipment, I Should be able to pull the pedigrees for you! I will keep you updated on all this information!!

Thank you again for your patience!

Dakota

Hello Dakota,

Has Safe Chain reached out to Tracelink to see if there is a solution between MDS and Tracelink system, I know Tracelink works with many companies and I am sure they could find a solution instead of this being manually entered by us into Tracelink. What software are you using because we are receiving a partial T3 from you all just not all the data which tells me it can possibly be done. I can reach out to Tracelink and see if they can help and talk with your IT Department? Any thoughts?

Yes, please continue to send Pedigrees when we place orders until we can fix the EDI for incoming ASN 856's.

We are in need of Pedigree for order #01S34758004 for the PREZISTA we received today.

Good Afternoon!

We have been adjusting some things, And I believe the past pedigrees SHOULD pull correctly now through TraceLink. (This does not include order # 01S34758) We believe the pedigree are pulling/missing information Since we do not use TraceLink with our vendors, so the information isn't compatible with our software. We have manually adjusted the information, so hopefully it will pull correctly. Due to the discrepancies between the software systems, at this time we will be disconnecting the link between TraceLink and MDS. We want to ensure you have the correct information at all times! We are more than happy pulling the correct pedigrees when your order is placed.

If you have any questions please let us know!
